

#GSADay4GJ Twitter Townhall Toolkit

Through the #GSADay4GJ Twitter townhall we hope to address the importance of gender justice and other intersecting movements when talking about abolition.

We'll ask a series of questions labeled Q1, Q2, Q3, etc. during the Townhall. To participate, start your replies to the respective questions with A1, A2, A3, and include your answer. Each question will be posted 10 minutes apart from each other. We really want to ensure that the voices and experiences of young people are represented in this conversation. Remember to use the hashtags #GSADay4GJ and so all of our audiences can follow along!

Here is an example

Q1: What is your fave color? @ourtranstruth #GSADay4GJ

- If you are responding to Q1 you want to reply and begin your tweet with A1 answer and use #GSADay4GJ

A1: I like the color green! #GSADay4GJ

Question for Twitter Townhall

Q1: How does abolition tie into other forms of social justice such as gender, racial, and disability justice?

Q2: What is the impact of having police on school campuses for trans and queer youth?

Q3: What does a world without prisons and detention centers look like?

Q4: What resources exist in your community that can be used instead of calling the police?

Q5: Based on current events of the world what resources do trans and nonbinary youth need to thrive?

Q6: If someone asked you how they could learn more about abolition what resources would you recommend to them

Bonus Question: Using the hashtag #abolitiontome can you let us know what abolition means to you?
